Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a ledger or account book. The text is organized into columns, with some entries appearing to be dates or times (e.g., "1797", "1798"). The handwriting is somewhat faded and difficult to decipher in many places. The text appears to be a list of entries, possibly related to a business or financial record.

Handwritten text at the bottom right of the page, possibly a signature or a date.

Handwritten text on a separate sheet of paper, likely a continuation of the manuscript or a related document. The text is written in a cursive script and is mostly illegible due to fading and the angle of the page. It appears to be a list or a series of entries, possibly related to the botanical specimens mentioned in the other pages.

The first of these is the fact that the government has been unable to maintain a stable currency. The value of the dollar has fallen sharply since 1929, and this has led to a loss of confidence in the government's ability to manage the economy. The second factor is the high level of unemployment, which has led to a loss of faith in the government's policies. The third factor is the fact that the government has been unable to pay its debts, which
 in the government's ability to manage the economy. The fourth factor is the fact that the
 maintain a stable currency, which
 in the government's ability to manage the economy. The fifth
 in the government's ability to manage the economy.
